

Appalachian Grown™ Partner

An overview of ASAP programs, services and benefits for restaurants, retailers, and wholesalers

The Appalachian Grown program certifies family farms and the food and agricultural products grown in the Southern Appalachian Mountains. ASAP's research shows that local food is an important consideration for area consumers when they're shopping for food and choosing a restaurant or grocer. As a partner in our Appalachian Grown program, you will help consumers better identify local food and farm products and gain exposure for your food business.

If you're a restaurateur, retailer, or wholesaler within a designated Appalachian Grown county, you can become an Appalachian Grown Partner and use our Appalachian Grown logo to promote food and farm products grown or raised by certified farms. To become a partner, submit a signed Appalachian Grown Partner License Agreement or create a listing in our Local Food Guide. For more information, visit the tools tab on our site at asapconnections.org.

Farm Profiles & Product Posters

Profiles of farmers and other promotional materials are available for display in your restaurant, store, or on your website. Displaying these images is a great way to inform the customer that what they're buying is Appalachian Grown and truly local.

Local Food Guide

Partners that buy Appalachian Grown farm products can be listed in ASAP's Local Food Guide. Offered in print and online, it is the go-to food and farm resource for locals and visitors alike. Each year, thousands pick up the guide to find local restaurants and retailers, connect with area farmers, and do their part to sustain the region's agricultural heritage. Visit appalachiangrown.org to get in the guide. For information on advertising in the guide contact us at ads@asapconnections.org.

Wholesale Local Food Guide

ASAP's Wholesale Local Food Guide is designed to connect buyers and sellers of Appalachian Grown food products. Businesses can list what products you are seeking from local farms and find what farms are offering at the wholesale level. This service is offered online at no cost. Create your wholesale listing when you get in the Local Food Guide at appalachiangrown.org.
