

Who Grows Your Food?

Oliver Organics • Hendersonville, NC

Hal Oliver puts a lot of work into maintaining four fields of productive organic gardens on the banks of Mud creek near Hendersonville. He can be found working at all times of the day and night, utilizing fifteen years of organic farming experience to grow a wide array of vegetables and herbs.

Over the years that Hal has been growing in Henderson County, he has forged strong relationships with his customers. Some of these are chefs at fine local restaurants, who appreciate the high quality of his produce. Others are individual customers that buy regularly from Hal at the Henderson County tailgate market. Hal says, "When a customer thanks me for growing organically, that just makes all of the work worthwhile."
