2015 Business of Farming Conference

February 14, 2015 | Sherrill Center, UNCA

ASAP's Business of Farming Conference is the region's only annual event dedicated to farm marketing and management. The two-day conference serves more than 250 farmers and sells out every year.

The conference is open to experienced and beginning farmers, as well as those seriously interested in farming. Workshop topics range from farm business planning to direct sales to ideas for farm diversification. The conference provides farmers with tools and resources to build more sustainable food and farm businesses.

This will be the first year the conference will be held at UNC Asheville's Sherrill Center. You can gain visibility for your business and connect with more than 250 attendees with a sponsorship of ASAP's Business of Farming Conference.
